☐ a translation of the international application into _____, which is the language of a translation furnished for the purposes of international search (Rules 12.3(a) and 23.1(b)).

2. With regard to any nucleotide and/or amino acid sequence disclosed in the international application and necessary to the claimed invention, this opinion has been established on the basis of:

a. type of material

☐ a sequence listing

☐ table(s) related to the sequence listing

b. format of material

☐ on paper

☐ in electronic form

c. time of filing/furnishing

☐ contained in the international application as filed.

☐ filed together with the international application in electronic form

☐ furnished subsequently to this Authority for the purposes of search.

3 ☐ In addition, in the case that more than one version or copy of a sequence listing and/or table(s) relating thereto has been filed or furnished, the required statement that the information in the subsequent or additional copies is identical to that in the application as filed or does not go beyond the application as filed, as appropriate, were furnished.

Novelty (N)	Claims 1-29	YES
	Claims 30	NO
Inventive step (IS)	Claims 1-29	YES
	Claims 30	NO

D1: US 5 662 031 (QIN et al.) 2 Sept. 1997 (02-09-1997)

NOVELTY (N)

Claims 1 to 29 comply with PCT Article 33(2) as no prior art alone discloses a treatment chamber or method for deactivating microorganisms in a fluid comprised of an electrode gap defining a biconcave treatment chamber through which fluid flows under the influence of gravity.

Claim 30 does not comply with PCT Article 33(2). D1 discloses the claimed subject matter before the claim date. D1 discloses a fluid treatment system using electrical pulses to inactivate microbes. Specifically D1 teaches that said treatment system has a treatment zone with faces that are contoured (column 5 lines 41-44). This can be clearly seen in Fig. 2, reference character (182). Considering this disclosure the subject matter of claim 30, comprised of a fluid treatment chamber with electrodes having opposite convex surfaces forming a biconcave annual treatment space, would have been common knowledge to a skilled technician on the claim date.

INVENTIVE STEP (IS)

Claims 1 to 29 comply with PCT Article 33(3) as no prior art alone or in combination discloses a treatment chamber or method for deactivating microorganisms in a fluid comprised of an electrode gap defining a biconcave treatment chamber through which fluid flows under the influence of gravity.

Claim 30 does not comply with PCT Article 33(3). D1 discloses the claimed subject matter before the claim date. D1 discloses a fluid treatment system using electrical pulses to inactivate microbes. Specifically D1 teaches that said treatment system has a treatment zone with faces that are contoured (column 5 lines 41-44). This can be clearly seen in Fig. 2, reference character (182). Considering this disclosure the subject matter of claim 30, comprised of a fluid treatment chamber with electrodes having opposite convex surfaces forming a biconcave annual treatment space, would have been common knowledge to a skilled technician on the claim date.

INDUSTRIAL APPLICABILITY (IA)

Claims 1 to 30 comply with PCT Article 33(4) as the subject matter of said claims has obvious industrial applicability and can be made and used in industry.
